Letter from Portfolio Managers

Dear Board of Advisors,

The 2018-2019 semester has gotten off to a great start, and we have been working diligently to build off our early momentum. We believe we have had a fruitful October despite turbulent market conditions, and have some great new ideas to share. As always, we can't thank you enough for the supervision and input provided to us, and look forward to continue working together to make IAG as beneficial as possible for our members.

First off, we'd like to share that IAG has concluded a very successful round of hiring for the 2018 Fall semester. We had an application count of over 120, our highest in several semesters, and we spoke to dozens of great candidates throughout the interview process. We hired 9 new analysts in total, a bit larger than our typical hiring class, but we were thoroughly impressed by each of the new hires and wanted to take full advantage of our robust applicant pool. While some of our new hires were able to make it to our previous oversight meeting, we'd like to provide a formal introduction here:

- Alex Hu
- Caleb Nuttle
- Cody Fang
- Jaro Van Diepen
- Nick Bell
- Nisha Honnaya
- Renjie Xu
- Simran Korpall
- Srikar Alluri

As always, the first semester for these new hires will serve as a "trial period," where we further evaluate fit and commitment to the club as they complete their training materials. We have great confidence that each of our new hires will complete these assessments with flying colors, and will have lots of great contributions to make to the club.

In contrast to the aggressive gains made by the market throughout much of 2017, 2018 has been characterized by much greater volatility, particularly in recent months. With major indexes undergoing swings of hundreds of points, sometimes within the course of a single day, we believe that our focus on fundamental, long-term value is more relevant than ever. Large declines in certain segments such as tech may provide attractive buying opportunities, and we have been monitoring companies such as Amazon in hopes of potentially buying in at bargain prices.

Despite market uncertainty in recent months, we are still deep into a bull market, and valuations generally remain quite rich. Warren Buffet himself has recently authorized a $928 million dollar share repurchase for Berkshire Hathaway, a signal that the greatest value investor of our time himself is struggling to find attractive investment opportunities. It is important than ever that we retain our investing discipline and focus on distinguishing between genuine quality businesses at low price and value traps.

Letter from Portfolio Managers

Over the period of the last month, the IAG fund has achieved a -4.31% return, eclipsing the S&P 500 benchmark return of -6.29%. More significantly, since May 2018, the IAG has achieved an 11.28% return, eclipsing the S&P 500 benchmark return of 4.27%.

Today we are pleased to present three businesses that exemplify our investment philosophy. On Page 15 is Blackberry (BB), a stable enterprise mobility management software business with a growth stake in autonomous vehicles. On Page 17 is Brixmor Property Group, a REIT that invests in shopping centers.

We look forward to the remainder of the semester. We are happy to be a source of information to the Board, and encourage you all to reach out with feedback or clarifications – thank you again for your time.

Best,

Nived Gopakumar & Steve Zhang

Letter from the Chairman

Dear Board of Advisors,

In the spirit of partnership, we would like to share with you some of the operational achievements our club has made over the prior period.

Sophomore Career Workshops:

As recruiting for sophomores kicks off, we have started to host internal workshops to help our students navigate the recruiting cycle. We have created a structured curriculum for students, ranging from an introduction to careers in finance to technical reviews. Additionally, we will set up mock interviews for students at the end of the workshop series with upperclassmen in the club to provide them with real-life training prior to their interviews.

Partnerships:

Girls Who Invest: We are currently partnering with QFS and USWIB to bring in Girls who Invest. We believe it is an incredible opportunity for the NYU Community and are incredibly excited to be co-sponsoring the event with them.

Alumni Connection:

IAG Alumni Mingle: As per tradition, we are hosting our annual IAG Alumni Mingle on November 9th. Currently, we have over 15 alumni RSVP'd to the event, with alumni engagement ranging all the way back to 2001. We are incredibly excited to have our mingle and reconnect with IAG alumni from over the years!

IAG Buddy Program: Mentorship is an important foundation of IAG. As a result, we traditionally pair our underclassmen with alumni from the club who volunteer their time to speak with students. Conversations can range from alumni speaking about their experiences with IAG to professional and personal guidance. We believe these conversations have provided students with an incredible opportunity to gain guidance that not even upperclassmen can provide them with.

Michigan Stock Pitch Competition:

IAG was recently invited to present at Michigan, with Nived, Steve W., Rohan and Sruthi representing the organization. While the team did not win, we are incredibly excited to have participated and look forward to bringing in some of the takeaways from the judges to our organization

Best,
Keshav
Chairman

Best and Worst Performers

Best Performing Movers (Last 1 Month)

Company	Ticker	Share Price 11/06/18	Share Price 12/03/18	Period Return
Stanley Black and Decker	SWK	$125.68	$136.02	8.23%
Dish Network	DISH	$31.49	$33.39	6.03%

Most of Stanley Black and Decker's return this period has been driven by trade war relief in the past few weeks and it's important to note almost half of it was driven on 12/3/18 when it was announced that there was some trade reconciliation between Trump and Xi. However, our position on the company is still down YTD due to concerns of rising input costs of aluminum and steel as well as a slowdown in homebuilding activity. Dish's Q3 earnings was a bottom line beat as a result of cost cuts, but a topline miss on subscribers. Sling net adds were 26k, far below the estimated 71k while churn on the primary products including PayTV was larger than expected. The market seems to be optimistic about the bottom line beat and spectrum monetization as the stock traded up post-earnings. It is worth mentioning that street maintained the same level of optimism on the company post-Q3.

Worst Performing Movers (Last 1 Month)

Company	Ticker	Share Price 11/06/18	Share Price 12/03/18	Period Return
Green Brick Partners	GRBK	$9.30	$8.33	-10.43%
Formula One	FWONK	$34.10	$31.32	-8.15%
InterActive Corp	IAC	$197.07	$183.56	-6.86%

Green Brick reported home sales missed for 3Q18 and adjusted-bottom line was lower than expected. Most of the decline in share price came before earnings were released and we still believe that Greenbrick is a value play combining presence in robust housing markets and balance sheet strength. Formula One released Q3 earnings on the 8th and beat both topline and bottom-line expectations. Despite the positivity in the earnings, the stock faced downward pressure, but we don't believe this warrants risk to our original margin expansion and streaming thesis. IAC announced a Q3 beat on revenues and earnings and announced future segmenting of earnings for Vimeo, a video services company and DotDash, a publishing company to provide more performance visibility. We would recommend selling around ~$200 as that price would reflect our original thesis playing out.

Portfolio Performance vs Benchmark

In the most recent month, IAG's returns have underperformed the S&P 500 benchmark. The movements in the S&P and the IAG portfolio, to a lesser extent, are largely reflective of the 3Q18 earnings season. Green Brick, Formula One and IAC have all released earnings for 3Q18 with mixed results. We strongly believe none of the results pose any material threat to our original and long term thesis in each of the companies and recommend holding the positions.

Over the past 6 months, we have outperformed the S&P as a result of holdings that we have liquidated in the previous oversight meetings including, but not limited to, Axon, Supervalu and Dave & Busters. Despite the underperformance this quarter, we believe that the slightly bearish market sentiment represents opportunities as a long term, value-oriented fund. Moving forward, we expect comprehensive revaluation of companies we tabled as they were deemed too expensive at the time.

Portfolio Exposure vs Benchmark

Market Cap Exposure: IAG vs S&P 500

IAG continues to target the S&P 500 benchmark specified in the fund mandate. As of December 2018, IAG is particularly overexposed to Consumer Disc.& Staples while underexposed to Financials, Industrials and Energy/Utilities. While we aim to correct IAG's overexposure, we also believe our industry overexposure is cyclical and representative of where we believe there is most value in the market.

IAG is still underexposed to large- and mega-cap positions, an issue which has previously stemmed from the difficulty of identifying attractive opportunities to enter heavily covered stocks. We continue to hold positions Disney ($173 B) and Gilead ($92 B) and will continue to seek opportunities where they present themselves.

IV. Key Holdings Update

Update Note: Western Digital

Dear Board of Advisors,

On the 25th of October 2018, Western Digital Corporation released their Q1 2019 results. Most importantly, they reported revenues of $5.03B and earnings per share of $3.04, representing a -2.9% and -14.6% YoY change respectively. Furthermore, Western Digital missed analyst estimates for EPS by $0.02 and revenues by $110M, causing its share price to drop by 18.18%. The reduction in revenues is mainly due to a reduced demand for NAND memory. This softening demand, in combination with increased flash supply, has led to a market imbalance resulting in a deteriorating near-term flash pricing environment. In response to these conditions, Western Digital is making an immediate reduction to wafer starts and delaying deployment of capital equipment. These actions will reduce Western Digital's wafer output beginning in fiscal Q3 2019. The goal of these actions is to better align Western Digital's output with the projected global demand for flash.

As for Western Digital's operational results, the decrease in pricing offset Western Digital's strong performance in capacity enterprise, surveillance hard drives, and embedded flash solutions, with each growing revenue over 30% on a year-over-year basis.

In conclusion, we believe Western Digital performed well given the current market situation. Furthermore, the revenue decrease due to flash pricing is not unexpected, and is accounted for in our projections. Therefore, this issue does not pose an immediate threat to our thesis.

Best,

Mateo Panjol-Tuflija
